Committee proposes limiting class loads

by Linda Fraembs

The ad hoc committee on registration voted Friday to restrict Eastern students from signing up for more than 16 semester hours when they pre-register for next fall.

Director of Registration Michael Taylor said the 16-hour limit, which he hopes will free approximately 30,000 credit hours per semester, will have to be implemented manually if put into effect for next fall.

By restricting the number of hours a student may sign up for during pre-registration, it is hoped courses can be distributed more fairly among students.

Listing alternate courses on pre-registration forms, which was approved earlier by the committee, will not be implemented until next spring because computer programs will need to be changed, Taylor said.

Committee Chairman Larry Williams said Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin expressed his support of the 16-hour limit during a meeting between the two.

Taylor said the registration office will attempt to help students who receive less than 12 hours of classes after pre-registration by working with those students before the regular add-drop session begins.

The committee also voted to require that all undergraduate students consult with an adviser and obtain a uniform departmental stamp on every pre-registration and central registration form.

Samuel Taber, dean of student academic services, said the stamps would assure that "course requests are responsible and in line with the student's program."

The stamps would work as more of a checkpoint than a required 15-minute consultation with an adviser, Williams said.

Also at the meeting, committee members voted to require that a precise limit be set on class sizes, taking into account the contractual obligations of the faculty as well as the number of students that could be accommodated in the class.

The limit for each class would be set by the vice president of academic affairs with help from deans and department chairmen in consultation with the faculty.

Williams said the size limit would "eliminate problems of departments setting a limit at 20 (students) when they know all along they can accommodate 30 or 35."

All recommendations passed by the ad hoc committee are subject to approval by Marvin.

ISSC changes to reduce number of recipients

by Dana Eastridge

Due to changes in the Illinois State Scholarship Commission's funding process, fewer Eastern students will receive funding next year, an Eastern financial aids official said recently.

John Flynn, Eastern associate director of financial aids, said changes the ISSC is making in the formula used to make awards will mean Eastern will have fewer recipients next year.

"I expect quite a lot fewer. The ISSC won't know (the number) either. They haven't had the time or figures to make projections," Flynn said.

Formula changes include using a uniform methodology to choose recipients, increasing a student's self-help, decreasing budgets and placing more emphasis on family support.

ISSC Director Larry Matejka said the probable failure to get the funding the ISSC had requested may result in fewer awards, but "that doesn't mean the awards will be reduced."

He said the ISSC was forced to make changes in its method of distributing student awards by the uncertain financial situation.

Matejka said the ISSC will be awarding definite amounts for the first half of the year, but will wait to see how much money it actually receives before notifying students of their award amounts for the second half.

The students will be informed before the start of the school year that they may not get as much for the spring semester as they did for the fall semester, he added.

Formerly, the ISSC awarded the same amount for both semesters to students with full-year scholarships.

The Illinois Board of Higher Education cut $6.8 million from the ISSC's requested FY83 budget and has recommended a total budget of $104 million for the commission.

However, Matejka said he expects the final appropriation by the Illinois General Assembly to be close to this year's $91 million amount.

The IBHE recommendation is for $91 million for full- and half-year awards and $7 million for maximum award increases, he added.

The ISSC had asked for $93 million for full-year awards, $6 million for half-year awards and $11 million for maximum award increases, Matejka said.

Matejka said he will not know the budget figure that Illinois Gov. James Thompson will recommend to the General Assembly for some time, "because the state is in a difficult financial situation", and Thompson does not yet know what the total state budget will be.

Coal project may be delayed

by Jane Meyer

Eastern Physical Plant officials will learn Monday or later this week whether a coal conversion project scheduled to begin this summer will be delayed up to six months because of a lack of state funds.

Eastern Physical Plant Director Everett Alms said Sunday that he and his staff have been making inquiries into the matter but have reached no one who could confirm whether the project will be delayed.

"We just don't know where we stand on the project," Alms said. "No one seems to know."

The local project would convert Eastern's system from natural gas to coal-fired boilers.

"There have been delays in getting money allocated. It is entirely possible that the project could be scrapped," he said. "However, CDB (the Capital Development Board which funds such projects) usually doesn't go this far (in having detail drawings of a project drawn up) without being pretty sure the project is going to be constructed. But anything is possible."

A list of state construction projects that will be delayed this year because of a shortage of funds should be made public Monday. Gov. James R. Thompson announced late last week that he is halting most new state construction projects for six months.

Projects that will not be harmed by the delays are those with construction in progress and projects planned for mass transit and highway areas as well as prison construction.

Thompson said most planned construction projects, including those in the education field, would be affected by the delay.

Les Pauly, public affairs officer for the Illinois Capital Development Board said in the Times Courier Saturday that if the project is on the list it will be put on a six-month hold.

"It will be put on a six-month hold—probably until August—and then the whole thing will be re-examined," he said. "The governor's office will probably look at the condition of the economy and the bond market, then make a decision on funding the project."

Assistant Physical Plant Director Marty Ignazito was quoted Saturday in the Times Courier as saying it is not entirely impossible that the local project would be scrapped.

Ignazito could not be reached for comment Sunday by The Daily Eastern News.

The entire project, which is expected to take two years to complete, is estimated to cost $5 million.

Haig leads Soviet censure

MADRID, Spain—U.S. Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. was heading for Madrid on Sunday to lead a major Western condemnation of repression in Poland and blame the Soviet Union for fostering the military crackdown.

Haig was scheduled to deliver a major address Tuesday at the 35-nation European Security Conference denouncing the violation of human rights in Poland and charging the Soviets with complicity in breaking the 1975 Helsinki accords guaranteeing human rights and respect for national sovereignty in Europe.

U.S. sending 'dead' checks

WASHINGTON—The government has been sending pension checks to hundreds of dead bureaucrats, including one who died 16 years ago, a spokesman for the federal personnel agency says.

Patrick Korten of the Office of Personnel Management said the checks continued to be sent to 830 retirees that the agency did not know had died. The confirmation came after Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., criticized the payments to what he termed "the grateful dead."

The payments to the dead averaged more than $13,000 and the largest overpayment came to $81,952 to someone who died in 1965 and whose death was confirmed only a few months ago, Aspin said.

Weinberger: M-1 may fail hopes

WASHINGTON—Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said Sunday the new M-1 tank, the costliest ever built by the United States, may disappoint hopes that it would be better than Russian tanks it might face in combat.

Reagan aides defend plan...

WASHINGTON—Administration officials defended President Reagan's budget Sunday—record deficits and all—as essential for the nation's economic recovery. They predicted that despite initial protests, Congress would wind up approving most of the 1983 spending plan.

With congressional Republicans and Democrats alike recoiling at the prospect of deficits of $98.6 billion this year and $91.5 billion deficit in 1983, presidential counsellor Edwin Meese III declared: "People still like Reagan's program...I would never underestimate the ability of this president to mobilize the American people behind his policies."

And Budget Director David A. Stockman said that when Congress looks at the "hard, stark choices...they will understand very quickly that unless measures of magnitude that we've proposed by way of savings are adopted, that there could well be a severe threat to the economic recovery..." Reagan is asking for about $56 billion in savings for 1983, including cuts of $27 billion in domestic programs.

Stockman conceded that Congress might want to "marginally change" the proposals Reagan made for about $56 billion in budget savings in 1983—$27 billion in cuts in domestic programs, $7.2 billion in tax increases; $20.3 billion in administrative changes and $2.5 billion in user fees.

In all, Reagan proposed spending for the 1983 fiscal year of $757.6 billion. His plan would require taxpayers to spend $99.1 billion in interest payments on the national debt—more than the entire budget in 1961.

The president also is predicting an end to the recession later this year, followed by a lengthy period of strong economic growth, moderating inflation and slowly declining employment.

Despite the confidence expressed by Meese appearing on ABC's "This week with David Brinkley," and Stockman on CBS' "Face the Nation," Reagan's big deficit budget sparked talk of open rebellion among administration allies in Congress.

...while experts doubt plan

WASHINGTON—Unswayed by the recession that upset his glowing forecasts of a year ago, President Reagan says he still expects robust economic recovery—just one year later than planned. But after one year of "Reaganomics," private economists are as skeptical as ever.

Reagan's budget for fiscal year 1983, released this weekend, calls for the biggest federal deficits in history during the same three years in which he now predicts the nation will climb out of recession and head into a strong recovery.

At this time last year, Reagan said overall economic growth would be slight in 1981 but would bounce back at a healthy 4.2 percent rate in 1982 after adjusting for inflation.

Now, Reagan says growth this year will be much less—just two-tenths of 1 percent. But once again, they are saying wait until next year, when they predict economic growth will be 5.2 percent.

Reagan was right last year on inflation. It declined faster than had predicted in 1981, and most analysts agree that it will keep falling this year.

Liquor law violators to face fines

by Peggy McMeen

Bar owners violating the state legal drinking age or the city's liquor ordinance can be expected to face fines and possible bar closings, Charleston Mayor Bob Hickman said Friday.

Hickman, city liquor commissioner, announced last week that bar owners establish a fixed carding policy.

Also in his announcement, Hickman said the Charleston police will spot-check the bars for violations.

Copies of a letter stating Hickman's announcement were sent to area bar owners Thursday night, Hickman said.

"We're going to do it," Hickman said of the spot-check plan, but added police would check "no set bar at any certain time."

The underage drinker, the bartender who served the drink and the bar owner or whoever is in charge at the time of the offense can be arrested, Hickman said.

Hickman added that a bar may be closed from 3-10 days and the State Liquor Commission, to which Hickman must file a report, can close the bar "up to a month, or at least for two weeks" for violations.

"They want the local to run it," Hickman said, but added that the state commission can recommend or order a bar closed for a length of time.

Fines "from $35 to $500" can also be levied against those involved, he added.

Hickman said he and Charleston Police chief Maurice Johnson thought the plan was the best way to control underage drinking in the bars and violations of the city ordinance, which states that 18-, 19- and 20-year-olds may enter bars but may not be served alcohol.

The ordinance recently came under fire from a group of Charleston residents concerned that their high school-age children were allegedly being served alcohol in area bars.

Hickman said he feels the stricter policy the city now has with the bars should quiet the complaints.

"I think it'll work," Hickman said, "but if it doesn't I'll just have to sit down and try to revamp it."

ISSC reviews funding bill, aid criteria

by Dana Eastridge

A current appropriations bill, student academic criteria and guaranteed student loans will be discussed Monday at the monthly meeting of the Illinois State Scholarship Commission, an ISSC spokesman said Friday.

The meeting will be conducted at Truman College in Chicago, ISSC Director Larry Matejka said.

Matejka said a bill governing appropriations for 1982-83 to be brought before the Illinois General Assembly this spring will be discussed.

The ISSC will decide which part of the General Assembly should receive the bill first and also which parts of the bill have priority, he added.

The ISSC originally requested $110 million in appropriations, but the request was cut to $104 million by the Illinois Board of Higher Education, Matejka said.

The ISSC will also review a report on the commission's academic criteria for determining financial aid.

"There has been a lot of national attention on students who are getting aid and not making progress (academically)," Matejka said.

Eastern Associate Financial Aids Director John Flynn said Friday Eastern's policy places requirements on students who receive financial aid.

"There are certain expectations students have to meet," including successfully completing 60 percent of their hours.

Eastern students are also restricted to receiving a maximum of 10 semesters of aid, Flynn added.

Matejka said the ISSC will also schedule a session on guaranteed student loans and possible changes in the program. These changes are expected to make qualifications for loans more difficult, he added.

AB reviews proposed budgets for 1983

by Nancy Montague

Beginning spring budgetary meetings Thursday, the Apportionment Board listened to fiscal year 1983 budget requests for Health Service, Art Board and Student Government.

Health Service proposed a total budget of $78,790 which included several increases due to increased cost of materials and services.

Dr. Jerry Heath, health service director, presented a $5,500 proposed increase in his budget item for radiology.

Heath also asked for an increase of $6,400 for drugs caused by rising costs of medicines for the pharmacy, he said.

The proposed budget also included $2,000 for the replacement of furniture in the waiting room as part of a five-year improvement plan which began last year, he said.

The proposed budget totaled $20,000 more than last year's.

Heath said he believes the proposed increase was necessary due to inflation.

The Art Board proposed a budget of $6,500 which included $4,700 for guest lecturers and workshops.

The proposed Student Government budget included a request for $3,000 for travel.

The proposed budget requested $700 for copying on campus, down $100 from the $800 in last year's budget, Nowak said.

Nowak proposed $1,600 for office supplies, a $150 increase over last year.

Thompson, Edgar could attend student sponsored election rally

by Kris Nicholson

The Eastern College Republicans will sponsor a rally Feb. 18 for all state legislative candidates and county candidates coming up for re-election in the next year, Tim Ulmer, vice chairman of the organization, said recently.

The rally has been scheduled to take place from 7 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. in the University Union Grand Ballroom.

Gov. James R. Thompson has been

James Johnson, a member of Eastern's art department, asked for an increase in printing and advertising of $300—from $200 to $500—because "it's important to get word out to students, and to do something of quality," he said.

Johnson proposed an increase in commodities from $371 to $500 to keep up with rising costs, he said.

asked to attend and "at this time we are expecting him," Ulmer said Thursday.

Ulmer is currently awaiting notification from the other candidates as to whether they will be able to attend and said "right now it's all a matter of their scheduling."

Ulmer said Jim Edgar, Eastern graduate and current Secretary of State, may also attend the rally.

Dear Sirs: A letter won't help

Dear Mr./Mrs./Miss ISSC,

This is to inform you that, under the circumstances, we students at Eastern Illinois University cannot give you that vote of confidence you so desperately seek.

In carrying out your planned campaign to personalize letters notifying students of ISSC awards, you hope to make the process simpler.

A personalized letter sounds like a nice idea, but isn't it an awfully superficial change, when the commission has suffered from so many serious problems the last two years?

Because you underestimated the amount of money needed for awards last year, you had to ask some students for a portion of their awards back.

Most students, we're sure, would rather receive an impersonal letter and the award amount originally promised, than the other way around.

You have, Mr./Mrs./Miss ISSC, made some significant changes in your program—many for the better.

The personalized letter is definitely a better means of notifying students of their awards than an original method, in which the ISSC would send students an index number which could be matched to a chart located in the universities' financial aids offices.

In another significant change, you also decided to "piggyback" on the Basic Education Opportunity Grant program's application forms rather than sending out your own form.

No doubt, Mr./Mrs./Miss ISSC, you will also expect students and parents to fund a greater portion of their education, and have reduced the number of students eligible for grants, effectively cutting out many middle income students, while still attempting to serve lower income students.

And while many of the changes instituted by the commission are a realization of the hard economic times to come by providing a realistic way to deal with them, they still have hit trusting students hard.

But now you offer the "personalized" letters to students in an effort to appease them.

Do you Mr./Mrs./Miss ISSC, seriously think students who have had to pay back funds from their own pockets or who have watched their dreams of an education dwindle because they don't fit into your idea of a "needy" student, can appreciate this token, however well intentioned gesture?

And how personal will those letters be? Assistant ISSC Executive Director Keith Jepsen, who is also director of scholarships and grants, said recently that the letters would come in three or four forms, each tailored to a set of circumstances under which a student would or would not receive an award.

So much for individual, personalized letters.

Perhaps what the ISSC needs and students deserve is not a weak dose of "personalized" literature, but a strong tonic of better funding management and better planning for serving future students.

Yours Sincerely,

It's the message that upsets people

The constant challenge of dealing with so many different kinds of people is what makes journalism an especially fascinating career.

Unfortunately, dealing with people is also why journalism can be such a frustrating career.

Readers praise a reporter for a light, interesting story. However, those same readers often become hostile at the first sign of a controversial issue which appears in print.

One example of an especially controversial local issue is the News' coverage of underage drinking in Charleston bars and the response of the community to the issue. Hostility not only from readers but bar owners and even the mayor has been directed toward the newspaper.

Several of our readers found the most convenient way to show their hostility towards the issue was to telephone me at 3 a.m.

Irate readers called to tell me in technicolor detail about everything from my personal reputation to how I was destined to die a grisly death at a very young age as punishment for "stirring up" the issue.

Area bar owners directed their abuse was more along psychological lines.

One of the more bizarre of these abuses happened when a city reporter contacted one of the bar owners for a comment. The bar owner had her read one of the recent stories over the phone, while he made insulting comments.

The reporter wondered why there was loud laughing in the background after each comment the owner made. At the end of the half-hour conversation, she was told why: the owner informed her he had put her voice over an intercom through the entire bar.

Behind the byline:

Charleston Mayor Bob Hickman was very smooth with his hostility. He simply told the Charleston newspaper that the college newspaper was creating the issue and that it must have been a "slow news day."

I guess he forgot it was him who sent a letter to bar owners in the first place stating he was getting complaints about underaged drinkers. As a newspaper, we passed that news on to our readers.

Ironically, the newspaper has suffered to a certain extent for doing one of its main duties—keeping our readers informed by exploring a social issue. Advertising by many bars and beer distributors has been pulled.

Was that an attempt by the bar owners to censor the press? Or to punish us for reporting on a current issue of public concern one bar owner said "hadn't been touched in 20 years"?

Through it all, these last few months have been a lesson in tolerance. But you as readers would have been much worse off by not knowing what was going on in the city. And I now realize that sometimes the readers hate the messenger for the message.

Your Turn

Change was rude

Editor:

I am concerned with a problem I have been faced with lately. The food service at Stevenson suddenly decided to change their meal times.

It all began on Monday morning when I attempted to eat breakfast at 9 a.m., but was told that they were closed. Breakfast is supposed to close at 9:15 a.m.

Later that evening, I went down to eat dinner at 6:25 p.m., but I was not able to eat the food which I had paid for. They again announced that they were closed and had been for ten minutes. Dinner is supposed to close at 6:45 p.m. I along with many others, was not informed of this time change and was quite displeased about it. It seems the only places where they put up signs declaring this change was in the cafeteria at lunch (after I had left), and at the Stevenson elevators.

In the future, I hope we students are informed of changes which obviously affect us. Not only was this time change rude, but it left me very hungry.

Pay the price for ISA

Editor:

In regard to the Student Senate's refusal to pay the Illinois Student Association dues already incurred last fall, I feel it is very unbusinesslike as well as an embarrassment to Eastern.

When a debt has already been incurred, regardless of whether it was worth the price or not, it should be paid. The debt to ISA may not be legally binding, but when a company receives merchandise to be paid for at a later date, it is legally binding.

I'm not sure how many of our student senators are business majors, but if they continue to use this method when they enter the business world, I'm afraid they won't be very successful.

I can understand the senate's reasoning behind not wanting to renew its ISA membership for next year, but it should be done with dignity by paying and not with disgrace by defaulting.

Free CPR class to be offered

Cardio-pulmonary resuscitation classes are being offered by the Charleston Recreation Department, a spokesman for the department said.

A class in the basics of this lifesaving technique will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday and Thursday at the department, 520 Jackson.

There is no fee for the class, but preregistration with the department is recommended.

Also, CPR refresher classes for those who have completed the basic course but wish further experience are being offered.

This class is also free of charge and will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. Feb. 18, March 11, April 1, April 22, May 13 and June 3 in the department office.

To preregister or obtain further information, call the department at 345-6897.

Local frat to sponsor college fund drive

In honor of Black History Month which is being celebrated this month, Alpha Phi Alpha, a national black fraternity, will be taking donations for the United Negro Fund from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Thursday in the University Union walkway.

Black Student Union President Fred Pickens said the 800 national chapters of Alpha Phi Alpha have set a fundraising goal of $1 million.

Money raised through the week-long drive will be given to the National Negro College Fund for scholarships for black students.

Eastern's chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha is Zeta Nu, he said.

Local contest tests lying skills

by Karen Sisulak

As a tribute to the country's two most famous honest presidents, Abe Lincoln and George Washington, a "Liar's Contest" is being sponsored by WEIC Radio and the Charleston Downtown Shopping Center, Inc., a WEIC official said.

Bob Payton, station manager, said the contest entrants must submit a 500-word creative essay that is "a whopper of a lie."

The rules of the contest require the essay to be a total falsehood and submitted to WEIC no later than Monday, Payton said.

Prizes will be a cherry tree for first place, three gallons of cherry ice cream for second place, and a cherry pie for third. The winner's names will be broadcast on WEIC Feb. 15, Payton said.

Parenting class set

Eastern students who are parents may be interested in a course centering on parenting and child care being offered by the Coles County Mental Health Center, Martha Carter, Children/Adolescent Specialist for the center, said.

The eight-week course will address issues such as responsibility, problem solving, why children misbehave and alternative methods of parenting, Carter said.

The first session will be 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Coles County Center for Human Services, 825 Eighteenth St., Charleston, Carter said.

Deja vu weekend: women cagers split again

by Susan McCann

For the second consecutive weekend Eastern's women-cagers notched a 15-point victory Friday night and dropped a heartbreaking 3-point decision Saturday at Lantz gym.

The Panthers handled Division II Lewis University 75-60 just as they had dealt Northern Kentucky a 15-point setback Jan. 29.

Saturday Eastern fell to the Big Ten Wisconsin Badgers 64-61. One week earlier, the Division I Bradley Braves handed Eastern a 91-88 defeat.

Eastern came out strong against a tall Badger man-to-man defense Saturday as the Panthers scored three quick baskets to take a 6-0 lead at 18:35.

The Panthers were never seriously threatened as they extended the lead to 12, 24-12 at 10:05. However, after a Badger time out Wisconsin's 5-foot-11 forward Theresa Huff went to work.

Huff notched 13 points in the next six minutes to pace the Badgers to within one point, 32-31, at the 3:12 mark.

Wisconsin took the lead shortly before intermission, but a lob pass from Jodi Corson to Nancy Kassebaum under the basket gave Eastern a 38-37 halftime lead.

Although Eastern tallied first in the second stanza, the Badgers scored eight straight to lead 45-40 with 15:42 remaining.

The Panthers came back with a streak of their own, reeling off ten points to one free toss for Wisconsin to lead 52-46 at 9:54.

Eastern maintained a two- to four-point margin with one tie until Vivian Rorer rebounded a Huff miss and tallied to deadlock the game at 58 with 2:18 left.

Michelle Lowman nailed a 15-foot jumper on the baseline and Rorer added two free throws with 21 seconds remaining for a 62-59 Badger lead.

Wisconsin win.

Southern fell to 5-5 in the Valley and 9-10 overall, while Eastern enters the match up with an 8-11 slate. Illinois State led 33-25 at the intermission Saturday and coasted to the victory in the final half, but Samuels said the Salukis will be looking for a better effort Monday.

Dennis Goins paced the Salukis with 13 points against Illinois State, but guard James Copeland and forward Charles Nance have lead Southern throughout the season.

"They've (Southern) got some adequate quickness, and they try to change a lot of things to disrupt the tempo," Samuels said. "And I know Southern is looking forward to playing us again."

Samuels' persistence in questioning a foul and consequent ejection in the second half of the first Eastern-Southern clash this season caused three Eastern technical fouls that ignited the Salukis to the victory after Southern led 35-34 at halftime.

"I want to stay in the game this time, but I'm sure we wouldn't play anything differently this time," Samuels said. "We just want to improve and convert on offense, where we didn't convert at times the first time we played."

Grapplers tame Wildcats for second straight

by Dan Brannan

Eastern's grapplers pushed their dual record to 4-1 by destroying the University of Kentucky 26-7 for their second consecutive victory Friday at Lantz Gym.

The Panthers have been hampered with injuries throughout much of the season, but head coach Ron Clinton said after the Kentucky massacre that his squad is beginning to recover from the injury battle.

"We're on a good roll," Clinton said. "We're slowly getting there, but we still have the nagging injuries. They (the injuries) are really hurting our conditioning. We still can't wrestle seven minutes without getting tired."

However the Panthers were very aggressive against the Wildcats Friday.

"Overall, we wrestled with a lot of aggression today," Clinton said. "We were spotty in a few spots, but really we wrestled well. Once again the matches were a lot closer than the score indicated."

The Panthers took seven out of the 10 weight classes to manhandle the Wildcats.

Winners for Eastern were Randy Blackman at 118, Bernie Ruettiger at 134, Rich Brown at 142, Mike Polz at 158, Mark Gronowski at 167, Tom Borich at 177 and Geno Savegnago at 190.

Blackman defeated Glenn Mansfield 9-8, while Ruettiger topped Efrem Hawkins 6-2 and Brown won his match 13-6.

Polz dominated Bryan Boone 8-1 and Gronowski defeated Rick Rindfuss, who is rated third in Division I by the Amateur Wrestling News at 150, 12-8.

Kentucky's decision to wrestle Rindfuss at 167 instead of his normal 150 position was not a wise one, Clinton said.

"The kid (Rindfuss) loves to compete and he will wrestle anywhere, but they (Kentucky) were a little foolish to wrestle him at 167," Clinton said.

Kentucky head coach Fletcher Carr said, "He (Rindfuss) is a very tough wrestler and he will wrestle anywhere we put him. I think the scoring in the match was questionable. There is no doubt in my mind he should have beaten Gronowski."

All-American Geno Savegnago, displayed his national championship form despite two broken fingers as he pinned Wes Hester with 4:09 remaining.

The grapplers will have some time off until Feb. 18 when they face Southern Illinois University-Carbondale and the University of Illinois at 4 and 8 p.m. in double dual competition at Lantz Gym.

SIU invades Lantz Confidence-seeking cagers to host intrastate rival Salukis

by John Humenik

Confidence will be the key factor for Eastern's cagers when Southern Illinois-Carbondale invades Lantz Gym for the first time 7:30 p.m. Monday, Panther head coach Rick Samuels said.

When the two schools squared off in Carbondale Dec. 7, Samuels said neither squad possessed any confidence advantage as the Salukis registered a 90-77 victory.

The Eastern athletic department has labeled the contest as "Sea of Blue Night" in an effort to increase support in the Panther basketball program. All students are requested to wear a blue shirt and Samuels said the support should boost the Panthers' confidence against a competitive Salukis squad.

"Our players feel really good now and they're starting to build up confidence in themselves, but they need the fans behind them," Samuels said.

"I don't think they (Southern) have changed in the way they do things since the first time we played, but this time they're coming in with a lot of confidence so we expect a good game."

The Panthers enter the non-conference clash boasting a two-game winning streak in edging out Chicago State 86-78 Wednesday in overtime and Valparaiso 66-65 Saturday in Indiana.

"We're starting to gather some momentum now and we've shot the ball well in our last two games," Samuels said. "We're anxious to play them (Southern), and this could be the start of a big rivalry."

The Panthers shot a season-high 59 percent from the floor in the victory over Valparaiso, as Ricky Robinson led Eastern with 24 points. Samuels said the confidence his cagers are gaining should help the Panthers contain the Salukis and improve their shooting from the floor.

"We want to be more aggressive at home and execute well on offense," Samuels said. "We have to be more conscious of what were doing and take one thing at a time. We want to get the early lead and build on it from there."

The Salukis enter the contest playing the second game of a three-game road trip after dropping a 65-53 Missouri Valley Conference game to Illinois State Saturday in Normal.

Magee leads improved tracksters to fourth

by Mike Prizy

Eastern News correspondent

CHAMPAIGN—The Eastern men's track squad displayed "tremendous improvement" in registering a fourth-place finish at the Illinois Intercollegiate Indoor Championships Friday and Saturday.

"We doubled our team output compared to last year," Panther head coach Neil Moore said. "We made a tremendous improvement and we competed very well."

Southern Illinois University-Carbondale won the state meet with 170 points while the University of Illinois finished second with 149, Illinois State was third with 102 and Eastern was fourth with 74 in the 18-team meet.

In last year's state meet, the Panthers scored 37 points and settled for fifth place behind Northern Illinois. Saturday, the trackmen exceeded fifth place Northern's total by 34 points.

"We got our revenge on Northern," Moore said. "We won some respect for our program."

However, Eastern was unable to reach its goal of third place because "we couldn't overcome ISU's strength in the distance events," Moore said.

But the Panthers showed some of their own strength by winning the long jump, 60-yard dash, two mile relay and qualifying three hurdlers for the seven-man finals of the 60-yard high hurdles.

The Panthers were led by sophomore sensation Claude Magee, who leaped 11 times to win the long jump, defended his 60-yard dash title and placed third in the 300-yard dash.

During a two-hour span on Friday, Magee had to long jump six times, run the 60-yard dash twice and run in a qualifying heat of the 300-yard dash. Saturday the speedster ran only in the finals of the two dashes.

In the shorter dash, Magee had his usual bad start and was forced to catch the rest of the field. By the time Magee crossed the finish line, he built a substantial lead and won by more than .1 second to successfully defend his title.

In the exciting two-mile relay, Eastern missed the school record by 1 second in a winning 7:40.7 time.

The hurdles featured the closest finish of the meet. The race had to be decided by a photo that showed Eastern's Cornell Wilson and Craig Dewall with a good lean at the tape.

Eastern speedster Claude Magee catches his breath as he waits for the photo finish after taking third place in the 300 meter dash at the Illinois Indoor Championships Friday and Saturday at Champaign. Eastern finished fourth in the meet as Coach Neil Moore said his squad was much improved. (News photo by Tom Roberts)

Weekend scoreboard

Swimming success

Eastern men's swimming squad dumped Western Illinois University 79-36 Saturday at Lantz Pool.

The Panthers won 10 out of 13 events in boosting their dual meet record to 6-2. See Tuesday's Daily Eastern News for complete details.

Tracksters finish second

Eastern's women track squad registered three first- and three second-place finishes in notching second place in the 16-team University of Chicago Invitational Friday.

Gena Sperry and Liz Gratehouse led the Panthers. See Tuesday's Daily Eastern News for complete details.

Badminton blunder

Eastern's badminton squad finished a lower-than-expected fourth place in the EIU Invitational Friday and Saturday in McAfee Gym.

Illinois State placed first ahead of top-seeded Northern Illinois while Ball State finished third. See Tuesday's Daily Eastern News for complete details.
